

Rio Wiki Fan-Art Contest

Hi Rio Fans from all over the world! Are you eager to show your artistic skills? Do you think your Fan-arts are good? Then this is for you!

As a way to commemorate Rio 2 hitting theaters worldwide next April 11th I'm inviting all of you to participate on the first Rio Wiki Drawing Competition, Blu and his family are only a small part of the wide variety of animal species in Brazil, so we are asking you to create a new friend (or enemy) for our blue friends. Test your skills and creativity, give your best and show us you're the biggest Rio fan.

There will be only one winner, the prize? The best drawing will be exposed on the Rio Wiki's Main Page the day Rio 2 hits theaters. Do you want your art being exhibited to all our visitors for a whole weekend? Here is what you have to do:

This event will consist of 3 phases: Registration, Judging and Award periods.

There will be 1 (one) single round.

Starting from today (March 11TH) you can register your participation by leaving a message on this blog post containing the following:

- Your drawing image
- Your User Name
- Your character's name
- Your character's Species (must be a real animal)

Despite I'm not participating myself in order to make this clearer I'll add my participation entry so you can see an example (Of course I know you can do it better).

Only one entry per participant is allowed, the first one you register is the one that enters, so be careful. Your drawing will get a participant number which along with your character's name will be a reference during the judging period.

Registrations will end on April 4th

Once everyone had registered his drawing a judging period will start and will last until April 9th when the drawing with more points will be the winner.

The elements to be evaluated are the following:

- Originality (Considering the drawing and name)
- Quality

- Details
- Realism (We must believe this character is really part of the Rio world)

A group of judges will vote following this criteria and select the best drawing.

Finally on April 11th, the day Rio 2 is released, the winner drawing will be appreciated by visitors on the Wiki's Main page for 3 (three) days.

There are no limits for how the drawing can be (although any image considered offensive will be immediately deleted), be as appealing as possible; you can use something as simple as a pencil or as complex as a design software, but remember there will be a unique winner so give your best.

I know all Rio Wiki users are honorable but I have to mention using images from other sources is not allowed, please don't cheat; the drawing must be your original creation (any attempt of cheating will be disqualified).

Are you ready? Yes? Then fly as fast as you can to your drawing board and bring a new Rio guy/girl to town.

Lordofduel

Event Organizer